ANIMAL-RELATED

EQUUS Foundation Humanitarian Award

The EQUUS Foundation Humanitarian Award was established by the United States Equestrian Federation and the EQUUS Foundation to celebrate the humanitarian achievements made by a member of the equine community. Specifically, the goal of the award is to spotlight and honor the selfless dedication of an individual or a group of individuals to horse welfare, whether on a regional or national scale. The award will be presented to an individual or group of individuals who have devoted considerable personal time to making the quality of life of horses paramount — from improving the health and welfare of the horse to promoting and expanding the general public's appreciation and respect of the diverse role of horses not just in equestrian sports but also as aides to the general public. The award is limited to individuals. Corporations, organizations, affiliate groups, and businesses are not eligible.

Deadline: November 9, 2012

Maximum Grant: $5,000

ARTS AND CULTURE

2013 PTT Grants

NCPTT advances the application of science and technology to historic preservation. Working in the fields of archeology, architecture, landscape architecture and materials conservation, the Center accomplishes its mission through training, education, research, technology transfer and partnerships. NCPTT seeks innovative projects that advance science and technology for historic preservation. The PTT Grants program funds projects that develop new technologies or adapt existing technologies to preserve cultural resources. Projects may include, but are not limited to:

- laboratory or field research that explores or assesses novel or adaptive methods;
- training activities, including workshops, and course or curriculum development that promote the use of new or adaptive technologies;
- documentation using new methods;
- manuscript or website development that disseminates innovative preservation technologies; and
- meetings that convene experts to discuss the use of technologies to address preservation problems.

NCPTT does not fund “bricks and mortar” projects or straight-forward documentation projects using well-established methods.

Deadline: November 1, 2012

Maximum Grant: $25,000

Collaborative Research

Collaborative Research Grants support interpretive humanities research undertaken by a team of two or more scholars, for full-time or part-time activities for periods of a minimum of one year up to a maximum of three years. Support is available for various combinations of scholars, consultants, and research assistants; project-related travel; field work; applications of information technology; and technical support and services. All grantees are expected to communicate the results of their work to the appropriate scholarly and public audiences. Eligible projects include

- research that significantly adds to knowledge and understanding of the humanities;
- conferences on topics of major importance in the humanities that will benefit scholarly research; • archaeological projects that include the interpretation and communication of results (projects may encompass excavation, materials analysis, laboratory work, field reports, and preparation of interpretive monographs); and • research that uses the knowledge and perspectives of the humanities and historical or philosophical methods to enhance understanding of science, technology, medicine, and the social sciences.

Deadline: December 6, 2012

Maximum Grant: $300,000

America's Media Makers

America's Media Makers (AMM) grants support the following formats: • interactive digital media; • film and television projects; and • radio projects. Interactive digital media may be websites, games, mobile applications, virtual environments, streaming video, or podcasts. Film and television projects may be single programs that address or a series that addresses significant figures, events, or developments and draw their content from humanities scholarship. They must be intended for national distribution. Radio projects may involve single programs, limited series, or segments within an ongoing program vehicle. They may also develop new humanities content to augment existing radio programming or add greater historical background or humanities analysis to the subjects of existing programs. They may be intended for regional or national distribution. NEH encourages projects that feature multiple formats to engage the public in the exploration of humanities ideas. Proposed projects might include complementary components that expand or deepen the audience's understanding of a subject: for example, museum exhibitions, book/film discussion programs, or other formats that enhance the programs' humanities content, engage audiences in new ways, and expand the distribution of programs. Grant Categories Development grants enable media producers to collaborate with scholars to develop humanities content and to prepare programs for production. Grants should result in a script or a design document and should also yield a detailed plan for outreach and public engagement in collaboration with a partner organization or organizations. Production grants support the production and distribution of digital projects, films, television programs, radio programs, and related programs that promise to engage the public.

Deadline: January 9, 2013

Maximum Grant: $1,000,000

America's Historical and Cultural Organizations

America's Historical and Cultural Organizations grants provide support for museums, libraries, historic places, and other organizations that produce public programs in the humanities. Grants support the following formats: • exhibitions at museums, libraries, and other venues; • interpretations of historic places, sites, or regions; • book/film discussion programs; living history presentations; other face-to-face programs at libraries, community centers, and other public venues; and • interpretive websites. Types of America's Historical and Cultural Organizations awards Planning grants support the early stages of project development, including consultation with scholars, refinement of humanities themes, preliminary design, and audience evaluation. Implementation grants support final scholarly research and consultation, design development, production, and installation of a project for presentation to the public. See application guidelines for Implementation Grants.

Deadline: January 9, 2013

Maximum Grant: $1,000,000

COMMUNITY/ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Association of Performing Arts Presenters and the MetLife Foundation All-In: Re-imagining Community Participation

Supporting a grant program designed to support innovative strategies that target the full spectrum of community members from all generations and populations in community-based performing arts programs. The program provides support to APAP-member presenting organizations that exhibit outstanding approaches to community engagement. The program is designed to identify and support organizations committed to learning about and integrating new approaches to fostering the participation of an entire community; support the planning and implementation of community engagement projects that go beyond conventional audience development strategies; and share new and adaptive strategies from funded projects in an effort to increase the effectiveness of community engagement practices. Projects should target one or more populations that lack significant engagement in the arts and cultural life of the applicant's community. Targeted populations may be based on demographics unique to the community (e.g., ethnically diverse/immigrants, generational/older adults, economically disadvantaged, people with disabilities, or others).

Deadline: November 1, 2012

Maximum Grant: $25,000

AAUW Community Action Grants

The AAUW Community Action Grants Program annually provides funds to individuals, AAUW branches, and AAUW state organizations as well as local community-based nonprofit organizations for innovative programs and non-degree research projects that promote education and equity for women and girls. The program's one-year grants ($2,000 to $7,000) provide funding for community-based projects. Two-year grants ($5,000 to $10,000) provide start-up funds for new projects that address the particular needs of the community and develop girls' sense of efficacy through leadership or advocacy opportunities. Project topic areas are unrestricted but should include a clearly defined activity that promotes education and equity for women and girls. Special consideration will be given to projects focused on the achievements of K-12 girls and community college women in science, technology, engineering, or math.

Deadline: January 15, 2013

Maximum Grant: $10,000

ENVIRONMENT

2013 National Urban and Community Forestry Grant

The National Urban and Community Forestry Advisory Council is seeking innovative grants proposals for program development, research, and collaboration to address the following two strategic priority issues widely seen as confronting the urban and community forestry community at a national or multistate level. • Innovative proposals that demonstrate the connection between the personal benefits of urban forests and quality of life within a community through community engagement; and • Design an urban forestry recruitment program and retention strategies that support existing urban forestry academic curriculum. Organizations, local governments, tribal agencies, and partnerships are encouraged to submit proposals that will demonstrate the reach, resources, and expertise needed to address the two priority issues in ways that will lead to meaningful, replicable results. Potential Innovation grantees are encouraged to work collaboratively with other organizations and entities not traditionally involved in urban and community forestry. Applicants should consider multi-year projects and other sources of funds, including other Federal cooperative conservation sources. (Note: Federal dollars, in-kind services or donated materials may NOT be used as match to this grant program). As much as $900,000.00 is available in FY 2013 for three or more Innovation Grants. Grant Category 1: Create an outreach program, pilot project or series of initiatives that communicates the connection between the personal benefits of urban forests and quality of life within a community through community engagement. Approaches must include the following: • educate distinct segments of the public about the benefits of urban forests; • mobilize individual action to help plant and care for trees on community property and their own private property; • engage community groups to take responsibility for their local environment; • make urban forestry a key component of planning for a community's future. The intended results must be directed toward mobilizing individual or community action and policy integration. The best practices or initiatives that result from the project would be designed for adoption or integration into local land use planning efforts in similar cities, towns or villages. Grant Category 2: Design an urban forestry recruitment program and retention strategies that support existing urban forestry academic curriculum. • Result in a measurable increase to the baseline number of students enrolled in urban forestry as their chosen major or those with declared concentrations, or minors in urban forestry; • Increase the proportion of students enrolled in natural resources disciplines who seek post-graduation positions in urban and community forestry settings; and • Can be replicated for application in other schools. • Applicants should review the Society of American Foresters (SAF) list of schools and accreditation criteria when developing their proposal.

Deadline: December 3, 2012

HEALTH

Retention Care RFP 2012

AIDS United and the M-A-C AIDS Fund have announced a Request for Proposals for the Retention in Care initiative, which aims to increase retention in effective HIV health care by people living with HIV/AIDS, particularly those who are living in poverty and are at risk for dropping out of care or becoming sub-optimally engaged in care. The program will support approximately five grantees in the United States to facilitate retention in HIV health care by strengthening support and service systems and addressing barriers that affect people's ability to consistently participate in such care. AIDS United encourages applications that include a focus on marginalized, underserved populations that traditionally have less access to, and retention within, medical care. The organization is especially interested in funding proposals that combine retention in care efforts with intersecting areas of concern — for example, intimate partner violence, depression/mental health treatment, housing, and food security.

Mary Byron Project Announces Roth Award for Domestic Violence Programs

As part of its annual Celebrating Solutions Awards honoring innovative programs in the United States that demonstrate promise in ending the generational cycle of domestic violence, the Mary Byron Project has created the Roth Award to reward and spotlight domestic violence programs that address the needs of underserved populations. Eligible programs provide services to populations (including those based on age, race, ethnicity, gender, faith, disabilities, low socioeconomic status, sexual preference, and victims from economically comfortable suburban areas) that traditionally do not know how to avail themselves of services or who are too ashamed to find them.

Deadline: December 21, 2012

HIV Care Grant Program – Part B

Part B funding is used to assist States and Territories in developing and/or enhancing access to a comprehensive continuum of high quality, community-based care for low-income individuals and families living with HIV. As such, it supports the National HIV/AIDS Strategy (NHAS) goals of: reducing HIV incidence, increasing access to care and optimizing health outcomes, and reducing HIV-related health disparities. A comprehensive HIV/AIDS continuum of care includes the following core medical services: outpatient and ambulatory health services, AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP) treatments, AIDS pharmaceutical assistance (local), oral health care, early intervention services, health insurance premium and cost sharing assistance, home health care, medical nutrition therapy, hospice services, home and community-based health services, mental health services and medical case management, including treatment adherence services and substance abuse outpatient care. These services assist PLWH/A in accessing treatment of HIV infection that is consistent with HHS Treatment Guidelines. The guidelines include ensuring access to antiretroviral and other drug therapies, including prophylaxis and treatment of opportunistic infections as well as combination antiretroviral therapies. Comprehensive HIV/AIDS care beyond these core medical services also includes access to support services: case management (non-medical), child care services, emergency financial assistance, food bank/home delivered meals, health education/risk reduction, housing services, legal services, linguistic services, medical transportation services, outreach services, psychosocial support services, referral for health care/supportive services, rehabilitation services, respite care, residential substance abuse services and treatment adherence counseling. This continuum of care may include only those supportive services that enable individuals to access and remain in primary medical care. Total program funding $1.3 billion.

YOUTH

Prudential Spirit of Community Awards

Created by Prudential Financial and the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the Prudential Spirit of Community Awards program annually honors middle and high school students in the United States who volunteer in communities at home or abroad. The program's goals are to applaud young people who already are making a positive difference in their towns and neighbourhoods, and to inspire others to think about how they might contribute to their communities. Over the past 17 years, more than 345,000 young Americans have participated in the program, and more than 100,000 of them have been officially recognized for their volunteer efforts.

Deadline: November 6, 2012

Maximum Grant: $5,000

Nestlé Very Best In Youth

The biennial Nestlé Very Best In Youth program seeks to highlight youth leadership by identifying teens whose efforts are making a profound difference in the lives of others. Contestants must be between 14 and 18 years of age and must demonstrate good citizenship, have a strong academic record, and show how they are making a special contribution to their school, church, or community. Applicants must be legal residents of the United States. Nestlé will donate $1,000 in the name of each winner to the charity of his/her choice. Winners also will receive a trip for himself/herself and a parent or guardian to Los Angeles for the awards ceremony. The trip includes roundtrip coach air travel, hotel accommodations for three nights, and spending money.

Deadline: November 8, 2012
